Recognition & transition plan

Scope, evidence and milestones are reviewed separately from membership admission.

07 Defined technical recognition scope

For Corporate Recognised applicants, describe the scope requested now. Corporate applicants may record a proposed scope and identify items to confirm in the roadmap. Do not claim conformity before the independent decision.

Activity / process / service to be demonstrated

Applicable IAF standard title / reference

Edition / revision

Sites covered, scope boundaries and requested exclusions

Key reports, implementation results, competence and requirement-matrix references

Known gaps, open findings and corrective-action status

08 Three-year transition commitment

Every applicant activated with Corporate status commits to attaining Corporate Recognised status within 36 months of activation. Submit the roadmap within six months; review progress at annual renewal. An unavailable standard or assessment route requires an evidenced exception request before the deadline. Only a reasoned decision can grant a limited extension.

Transition owner - name / role *

Transition owner email *

Proposed milestones, resources and assessment readiness plan *

Start and deadline are recorded by IAF on activation. Renewal does not reset the period. The undertaking does not establish technical conformity; recognition requires accepted evidence and an independent decision.

Disclose matters relevant to this application and proposed participation, including decision-maker relationships or restrictions affecting the claimed scope. Provide sensitive case details by secure reference. Disclosures are assessed on evidence and do not automatically determine the outcome.

Membership, privacy & choices

Read the participation commitments and make optional publicity choices separately.

11 Participation and member conduct

Eligible members elect committee members and committee chairs under the Constitution and committee rules. General membership does not elect, appoint, recall or replace the President or Presidential Council. Participation and leadership eligibility require the applicable checks; no seat or appointment is guaranteed.

Membership does not authorise representation of IAF, technical approvals or accreditation. Use marks only as authorised. Maintain current affiliations and conflict disclosures and respect confidentiality, privacy, intellectual property and lawful competition.

Remain open to lawful cooperation, including standards, research, training and sector development. Consider proposals constructively and agree project obligations separately. No unrestricted access to confidential information or resources is granted.

12 Privacy information and optional choices

IAF uses application records to assess eligibility, verify authority, administer membership and protect record integrity. Access is limited to authorised staff, necessary service providers and relevant technical reviewers under the membership privacy notice.

Before submitting, obtain the notice identifying the responsible legal entity, privacy contact, purposes, lawful bases, recipients, transfers, retention criteria and rights. Records follow the applicable retention schedule and justified holds. Use the verified privacy contact for access, correction or other rights; statutory complaint routes remain available.

Basic public membership-verification fields follow the notice and membership terms. The optional profile and promotional choices below do not affect admission and may be withdrawn through the verified privacy contact.

- ☐ OPTIONAL: Publish the organisation profile and public contact details expressly approved below.
- ☐ OPTIONAL: Send me IAF news, events and promotional invitations by email. Essential membership notices remain separate.

Optional public profile - do not include private contact or ID details
